Magpul FMG (Folding Machine Gun)

This is the FMG, or folding machine gun, which looks like a briefcase when folded.

It springs open, when the switch below the carry handle is activated. The removable weapon light is a handy accessory for use at night, or in any other low-light conditions.

Currently requires a federal firearms liscense to buy, but you can get an Airsoft version.

It takes less than one second to open the FMG, and the magazine is already in the weapon.

This close-up shows how the loaded magazine and handgrip fold up into the stock area.

This is exactly the type of collapsible survival gun design that I like, but I would prefer a semi-auto version. I seldom need full-auto, and semi-auto helps with ammo conservation.

The Magpul website address is: https://magpul.com/fdp-fdc Check out their videos!